NAZI SPIES LOSE IN SUPREME COURT

Meandering Along the Main Stem

By WASH FAYETTE

Those two patriotic youngsters, who saw a chance to take a part in their country's fight, can't hide their light longer. . . of course, it was no secret. . . kids like Jimmy Jenkins and Forest Gray just do those things because they want to and not because of any hope of acclaim.

Well, anyway, those were the boys who saw a couple of Yankee sailors trying to thumb a ride west from the eastern edge of the city earlier in the week and, sensing the situation, put them on their bicycles. . . while they perched on the crossbar . . . and guided them to the other side of town where they could wiggle their thumbs at through westbound traffic. . . sure they got a ride in no time.

They came back and told Jimmy's folks, Mr. and Mrs. F. O. (Jim) Jenkins about it. . . they got their big kick out of talking to a couple of Uncle Sam's fighting men. . . just the same, the sailors got the lift they needed just because a couple of bright-eyed and smart kids saw a chance to help. . . and came through. . . it's grown-up kids like these. . . who are making things tough for the regimented and cowed forces of the Axis countries every time they meet on the field, in the air or under the sea in this war.

Fifty-eight years ago while E. O. Tanquary, druggist, was a kid attending Mallow School, he recalled today, the school building was shaken violently by a heavy explosion which startled the teacher and youngsters.

"Tan" had heard about the powder plant near Lebanon, and when school was dismissed he noticed a dense smoke hanging over the horizon in the direction of Lebanon.

This goes to show that even more than a half century ago blasts at powder plants occurred just as the one did at the same place Thursday.

Four Fayette County men whose names were not given, and who, it seems, each year make a fishing expedition to Manatou Island, have adopted a new policy this year, due to tire shortage.

Each year the four men have kept account of gas and oil expenses and split the cost four ways.

But this year—that's a different story!

In making plans for the trip, the man whose car is to be used told the other three men that each one must furnish a tire to be used on the trip, so it looks like the auto used for the expedition will have one of its own wheels and three from as many other cars.

PONTIAC, Mich., July 31—(AP)—War production was halted today at the Pontiac Motor Division of General Motors Corp. here after pickets turned away day shift employees, and a CIO union leader said the employees were joining a mass demonstration in connection with a CIO-AFL organizational dispute over retail food store workers.

Tucker P. Smith, regional director of the United Wholesale, Retail and Department store employees (CIO), said the strikers responded to an appeal to join a parade designed to convince state and federal authorities that AFL "blockade" of food deliveries to retail stores should be lifted.

Rallying Soviet armies, fighting under the slogan, "Die, but don't retreat," threw back the Germans in some sectors of the Don River bend 80 miles northwest of Stalingrad today, but in the Caucasus the situation grew ever more critical.

A bulletin from Adolf Hitler's field headquarters declared that German, Rumanian and Slovak troops driving toward the Caucasus oil fields had already thrust spearheads 112 miles below the Don, and the Russians acknowledged German advances in this theater.

Strong Soviet attacks were acknowledged in the north, around Rzhev, 130 miles northwest of Moscow, on the Volkhov front and outside Leningrad.

Day Air Assaults Renewed On Axis Ports on Channel; Nazis in Raid on England

LONDON, July 31—(AP)—British fighters swept across the channel in the direction of Boulogne this morning in a resumption of daylight raids on the occupied French Coast after a night of scattered German bombing attacks upon Britain.

Nazi planes also were active over the channel during the forenoon and heavy anti-aircraft fire was audible for several minutes on the outskirts of London, which had two quick alarms during the night—the fifth and sixth of the week.

The German night attacks were centered largely on the Industrial Midlands.

(The Berlin Radio said strong German bomber formations again raided Birmingham during the night.)

Eight of the raiders were shot down by British defenses and a ninth was destroyed over its base in occupied France by an RAF fighter, a communique said.

While the Midlands bore the brunt of the attack, which the bulletin said was not on a heavy scale, bombs also were dropped over east Anglia, the south coast and other widely scattered points.

Bad weather apparently was responsible for the failure of the RAF to attack Germany again last night, interrupted an offensive which had seen British troops driving toward the Caucasus oil fields had already thrust spearheads 112 miles below the Don, and the Russians acknowledged German advances in this theater.

Strong Soviet attacks were acknowledged in the north, around Rzhev, 130 miles northwest of Moscow, on the Volkhov front and outside Leningrad.

EVENING—Gus Sun presents Poodles Hanneford Circus and Acrobatic Acts, High Class Vaudeville, 8:30 P. M. (Grandstand).

FULL PROGRAM FOR AFTERNOON IS CARRIED OUT

Thursday Attendance Is Estimated at 10,000—Big
Turnout Is at Night

With the grounds in perfect condition at 1:30 P. M. Friday, and the track drying rapidly under the combined efforts of a small army of men, the sun and a strong breeze, the regular program of racing was to be carried out during the afternoon unless additional rain occurred.

The total Thursday crowd on the grounds was estimated at around 10,000, with by far the larger portion of the crowd attending the night fair.

For the first time a large crowd witnessed the pageant, "America on Parade," the closing performance, and Friday night an outstanding dog show and other attractions are scheduled to entertain the crowd in the grandstand.

One of the events of Thursday was the sale of 4-H Club calves, with the first prize calf, a black Pole, raised by Jimmy Hagler, son of Jesse Hagler, was sold to the Producers Stock Yards at $21.75 per 100 pounds.

Indications were that the racing program would start earlier than that of Thursday afternoon, when the first race was called around 4:20 P. M.

Friday morning's crowd was light due to the wet condition of the grounds, but the race fans and many others were gathering rapidly as the afternoon advanced in preparation for the racing program.

Another large crowd is expected Friday night, with a still larger crowd scheduled for Saturday night, if the weather permits.

KING'S MILLS BLAST LEAVES FEW CLUES

FBI Studies Background of Powder Explosion

LEBANON, July 31—(AP)—Explosions that killed five men and caused an estimated $25,000 damage at the King Powder Company's plant at King's Mills left few clues today for investigating FBI agents.

Raymond C. Suran, agent in charge, admitted late last night that "nothing conclusive" was learned in FBI work started minutes after the explosion occurred yesterday.

Killed were Clayton Moore, 31, and Sidney Abner, 33, both of South Lebanon; Roy Pence, 21, of Cozadale; Melvin Bolen, 45, of Blanchester, and Luther Mullins, 34, of Foster.

The Cincinnati ordinance district office, in announcing the damage estimate, said plant operations would resume "in a comparatively short time."

RUSSIA AND CHINA TO PRESSURE INDIA

LONDON, July 31—(AP)—A Reuters dispatch from Bombay said that R. H. Parker, European member of the Indian council of state, suggested today that Mohandas K. Gandhi and members of Gandhi's All-India congress committee meet Premier Stalin of Russia and Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek of China to discuss India's problems.

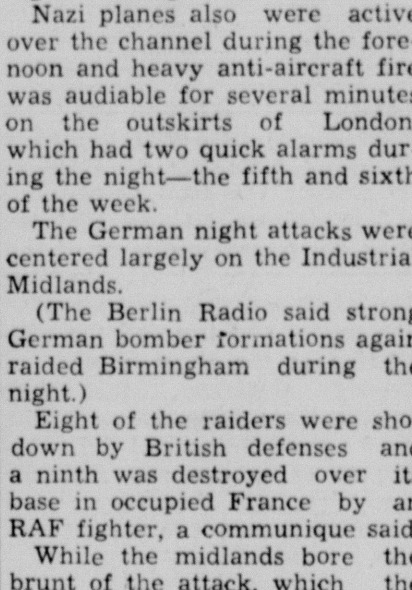

He proposed that meetings of the All-India congress committee be postponed until interviews could be arranged, and said the government of India would arrange transportation, Reuters reported.

Married on Air

There were millions of "guests" at the wedding of Pvt. Walter Bailey of New Rochelle, N. Y., and Miss Grace Melville of Palmer, N. Y., when they were married at Keesler field, Mississippi, where Bailey has just graduated from the airplane mechanics school. The ceremony was broadcast by radio coast-to-coast. The couple is pictured sealing the bargain with a kiss.

Italians Attacking

This is a rare war photograph, indeed, for it shows Italian troops not only in action but actually attacking. The picture, made before the fall of Tobruk, shows an Italian tank-supported column advancing. The men are scattering as a huge shell explodes nearby. You guessed it—the British beat off the attack with heavy losses to the Italian forces. Then German Gen. Erwin Rommel's crack Afrika Korps attacked, breached the defenses and Tobruk fell.

SECOND FRONT PLANS FORMING

Russia Insists Time Ripe
As Nazi Separate Peace
Propaganda Revived

By ROBERT BUNNELLE

LONDON, July 31—(AP)—The quicken pace of British and American offensive preparations in this theater and the constant conferences of Allied war leaders were viewed in London as indications that the Russians have made it plain they think the time is ripe for a diversionary action against the Germans in western Europe.

Discussion of such action was lent urgency by reports from continental sources of new German attempts to capitalize on Russia's situation and drive a wedge between the Allies by separate peace feelers.

Soviet Ambassador Ivan Maisky is said to have given a frank appraisal of Russia's military condition in a closed all-party session of members of Parliament yesterday. The same day, Maxim Litvinoff, Soviet ambassador to Washington, visited the White House.

While some persons believed London and Washington had been given to understand that Russia would be content with 1,000-plane raids on Germany and big-scale Commando forays, provided war equipment can be delivered to the Red Army on the required scale, a guarded dispatch from Moscow today suggested strongly that the Russians would not be satisfied with

Six Ohio Congressmen Get Isolation Backlash In Trying To Hold Seats

By H. H. DAUGHERTY

COLUMBUS, July 31—(AP)—The fight against renomination of one-time isolationist Congressmen apparently is overshadowing other contests, including the Democratic gubernatorial race, in Ohio's primary campaign.

Four of these congressional battles, involving the seats of two Republicans and two Democrats, stand out in an otherwise drab political campaign in which all candidates pledge all-out support of the war effort.

Probably the most spectacular is that being waged between Democratic Rep. Martin L. Sweeney of the 20th (Cleveland) district and Michael A. Feighan, a former minority leader in the State House of Representatives.

Sweeney, one of the most zealous isolationists in congress before the Japanese attack on Pearl Harbor, is fighting the toughest battle of his varied political career.

Sweeney not only is vigorously opposed by Cleveland newspapers but also the Democratic Cuyahoga County organization headed by Ray T. Miller, former mayor of Cleveland.

Mayor Frank Lausche of Cleveland, not on the best of terms with the Miller organization, threw his support to Feighan. Sweeney virtually is fighting

COLUMBUS OFFICIALS ARE PUT ON SPOT BY ARMY WAR ON VICE

Civil Authorities Told To 'Stick Out Their Necks' To Check Prostitution

COLUMBUS, July 31—(AP)—Civilian authorities must "stick out" their necks if necessary to clean up vice in Ohio's capital, the army asserts.

"We've got to stick our necks out," Col. O. M. Baldinger, commander of the nearby Lockbourne Air Base, declared yesterday in calling for stringent action to combat prostitution. "I've been sticking my neck out for two years."

His comments were in reply to an assertion by Municipal Health Commissioner Nelson C. Dysart that he could not order clinical examinations for prostitutes before their arrest without "sticking my neck out."

Officials decided to enlarge the vice squad, which went into action

Meet WAVE Commander

Good Looking Wellesley College Prexy Soon Will Be Lieutenant Commander Mildred McAfee

By RUTH COWAN

WASHINGTON, July 31—(AP)

—It's Lieut. Cmdr. Mildred H. McAfee, U. S. N. R., if you please.

Within the next few days Secretary of the Navy Knox is going to let out the secret that he, the admirals and Commander-in-chief Roosevelt have agreed on Miss McAfee, Wellesley College's 42-year-old president, as head of Uncle Sam's sailorettes.

President Roosevelt yesterday signed into law a bill creating a feminine naval reserve, designated as women appointed for volunteer emergency service—and promptly dubbed the "Waves"— to release men for active sea duty.

So now Uncle Sam's military-minded nieces have a choice of volunteering to be a "WAVE" or a "WAAC," the feminine equivalent in the army.

The new naval service will include 1,000 commissioned officers and about 10,000 enlisted members. The corps will be shore-bound sailors and the law prohibits their being sent outside the country.

Reports from Wellesley grads are that potential "WAVES" have drawn in "Miss Mac," a ship-

Canning Sugar Rationing Here To Start Tuesday

War Today

Are Reds Getting Stronger
Or Are Nazis Breaking?
Answer To Come Soon

(Wide World News Service)

Red Marshall Timoshenko, while continuing to give ground south of Rostov on the lower Don, has tightened his defenses considerably along the great crescent-shaped battle front during the past two days, but whether this represents Russian strength or a weakening of the Nazi drive isn't yet clear.

We ought to know soon, however, where the balance of power lies.

The conflict now has reached a stage when marked weakness on either side will begin to show.

The communist party newspaper Pravda of Moscow asserts that Germany is throwing its last resources into the offensive, and adds that "the enemy is not so strong as he appears to some panic-mongers." Pravda's information has been pretty accurate in the past, and if its present estimate is correct, the Reds certainly need not despair of holding the invaders.

We get another interesting view from Russian Major General Zhuravlev, a keen military commentator for the Moscow News. He declares "the day is approaching when the Red Army will deliver a counter-blow" and adds that while the German Army is still capable of scoring short-lived successes in separate sections of the front, it "will inevitably be smashed."

Now that is bold language, but we can't dismiss it lightly, for we know that there may be sufficient Russian strength, or sufficient German weakness, to bring about exactly the result the general predicts. We mustn't overlook that Hitler's resources are on the wane, which is precisely the reason he is seeking to break into the Caucasus now.

Timoshenko finally appears to be throwing reserves into some of the hot spots along the line. Indications are that he is still keeping back large reserves which can serve him in an emergency or for a counter-attack when the Germans are over-extended and tired.

The Red Marshall has been playing a cool and daring game. His strategic withdrawal with such an extended line and over such a great depth has been carried out in a masterful manner. Only a great general could juggle thus with disaster and not come a terrible cropper.

The signs have been that Timoshenko has figured on delivering a heavy counter-blow at the right moment, presumably against Nazi General Von Bock's left wing, which is anchored near Voronezh. Whether the mammoth battle will work out that way remains to be seen, but it still can be said that thus far the Muscovite position hasn't become desperate, though it is grave. Timoshenko can give much more ground without Hitler succeeding in breaking into the Caucasus.

ROBERT M. DEMPSEY PROMOTED TO SERGEANT

Robert M. Dempsey, son of Mr. and Mrs. M. L. Dempsey of 914 Millwood Avenue, has recently been promoted to the grade of sergeant at the Replacement Center of the Aberdeen Proving Ground, in Maryland.

Previous to his induction in November of 1941, Dempsey was engaged in the insurance business as an underwriter. He is a graduate of Washington Court House High School and his present duties are of a drill sergeant and platoon leader. He also instructs the new ordnance soldier

RECORD-HERALD COOPERATES TO SIMPLIFY TASK

Application Blank Printed
In Today's Paper—Fill It
Out and Save Time

With the second rationing for sugar for canning scheduled to open next Tuesday, the Record-Herald and the Fayette County Rationing Board have cooperated in arranging a plan which it is believed will simplify the routine of making applications for rations for the people of Fayette County. The period closes August 18.

On page five of today's Record-Herald there is an application form for canning sugar. Fill it out at home COMPLETELY and your troubles will practically be all over. However, the Rationing Board has emphasized that blank be filled out COMPLETELY AND IN EVERY DETAIL. The chairman also advised: "Read the instructions carefully—and then follow them."

When the application—filled out with all of the required information—is presented to the board, the chairman said "it will take only a minute" to get the application. But, he added, if the applicant has no form filled out, there will be a long delay that cannot be avoided; for, he pointed out "it is the filling out of these forms that take so much time."

Under the rationing regulations, one pound of sugar will be granted for every four quarts of finished fruit canned. (That requires an estimate). Also, each household is entitled to an extra pound of sugar for every member of the family living there for a small supply of jams, jellies and fruit butters.

Canning sugar rations will be granted at the county board's office in the Courthouse and at a sub-board to be set up in Stuckey's Hardware Store in Jeffersonville.

Plans have been made to put on 20 volunteer workers at the office here. Ten of them are slated to serve in the mornings and ten in the afternoons. Because the board feels these volunteers are entitled to one day each week, no applications will be taken on Mondays. The office will be open from 9 A. M. until 5 P. M.

At Jeffersonville, C. G. Stuckey will act as chairman of the board and Mrs. Helen Porter is to be put in charge of the office on a salary to be paid from contributions by the merchants of the village. She, too, will have a volunteer staff to help with the work.

The Rationing Board chairman said in announcing the rationing dates that the sugar for this period was intended primarily for preserving fruit and explained that the country's sugar supply had to be conserved because of the need of ships for transporting war materials and the submarine menace.

NAZI SPIES LOSE CASE BEFORE SUPREME COURT; MILITARY TRIAL RESUMED

cusated saboteurs sought the writ. The court's opinion found:

"1. That the charges preferred against petitioners on which they are being tried by a military commission appointed by the order of the President on July 2, 1942, allege an offense or offenses which the President is authorized to order tried before a military commission.

"2. That the military commission was lawfully constituted.

"3. That petitioners are held in lawful custody, for trial before the military commission, and have not shown cause for being discharged by writ of habeas corpus."

The opinion then said: "The motions for leave to file petitions for writ of habeas corpus are denied.

"The orders of the District Court are affirmed. The mandates are directed to issue forthwith."

The court's announcement explained:

"The court has fully considered the questions raised in these cases and thoroughly argued at the bar, and has reached its conclusion upon them.

"It now announces its decision and enters its judgment in each case, in advance of the preparation of a full opinion which necessarily will require a considerable period of time for its preparation and which, when prepared, will be filed with the clerk."

The military commission trying the eight prisoners heard the opening of final arguments today.

Attorney General Biddle and Colonel Kenneth C. Royall, who had argued the case before the Supreme Court, came to court, however, to hear the decision, after the commission took a two-hour luncheon recess.

Biddle said arguments before the commission might be finished speedily and the commission's verdict go to the President next week. Royall, however, said he did not know whether proceedings could be wound up that soon.

The commission set 1:30 P. M. for a resumption of the arguments.

The argument before the Supreme Court indicated the tenor of the prosecution and defense pleas behind the closed doors of the military commission in the Justice Department Building.

The prosecution alleged that the men left this country for Germany with funds furnished by the Nazis—Haupt traveling on a German passport—attended a sabotage school there run by the Army, embarked from L'Orient, France, on U-boats equipped with extensive paraphernalia and specific instructions for the destruction of im-

The defense claimed that the men, all former residents of this country, were loyal to the United States, that they attended the school and boarded the submarine as the only means of fleeing Germany, that they buried their explosives in the sand upon landing and did nothing to carry out any sabotage campaign, and that they were planning to report to the authorities.

tabs, not worn by the Russians, had been placed on the collars.

"Southwest of Kietskaya our troops repelled enemy attacks and in some sectors pressed the enemy back," a bulletin from Red army headquarters said.

Kietskaya, 80 miles above Stalingrad, has been the scene of a giant see-saw battle for the past eight days.

Confirmation still was lacking for a Vichy (French) radio broadcast report yesterday that German troops from the Crimea had crossed the narrow Kerch Strait to the Caucasus mainland and were imperiling the Russians below Bataisk.

Nazi Trick Fatal

Front-line dispatches said the Nazi experiment with tank-walled "flying wedge" attacks ended in disaster for the invaders.

Soviet gunners held their fire as the phalanx advanced, then wrecked the forward tank wall with volley after volley of point-blank fire and left the Nazi infantry exposed. Russians troops dashed into the breach, dispatches said, killing many Germans and routing the others in hand-to-hand fighting.

Red Star said the invaders fell back over steeples littered with bodies and smashed machines.

"In one sector alone during the last few days, 120 enemy tanks have been destroyed and more than 2,000 enemy officers and men killed," Soviet headquarters reported.

Allies Mass Forces

Meanwhile, the arrival in London of four high-ranking U. S. Army air force officers, coupled with the debarkation of a big new contingent of Canadian troops in the British Isles, stirred fresh speculation that an Allied invasion of western Europe might be near.

Soviet Ambassador Ivan Maisky was reported to have told a closed session of parliament that the time had come for the Allies to open a second front; moreover, Sir Stafford Cripps, Prime Minister Churchill's spokesman in the House of Commons, asserted yesterday that Britain had military "intentions," which, however, he refused to disclose.

Thousands of soldiers and hundreds of air force ground crews arrived in the big new Canadian overseas contingent, with tankmen predominating.

The high American officers included Brig.-Gen. Frank O'D. Hunter, commander of American fighting plane forces in the European theater, and Brig.-Gen. Asa N. Duncan, air force chief of staff.

Japs Menace Russia

British military quarters declared today that Japan had massed nearly 400,000 troops in Manchukuo opposite the 1,000-mile Soviet frontier and said "there is little doubt they are planning to attack."

These quarters predicted that the Japanese would make at least three drives in an attempt to isolate the Siberian port of Vladivostok, which lies only 700 miles across the Sea of Japan from Tokyo.

"August and September are the best months for campaigning in that area," the source said, "and the Japanese inactivity in all other spheres except the North Pacific indicates Siberia is their objective for the last half of 1942."

Aside from aerial operations and a minor Japanese land thrust toward the Allied outpost of Port Moresby, in New Guinea, the whole Far Pacific theater has been ominously quiescent for weeks.

Jap Transport Blasted

In Australia, Gen. Douglas MacArthur's headquarters reported the biggest outburst of aerial warfare since the Coral Sea battle, with American airmen destroying nine out of 49 Japanese raiders over Port Darwin, setting another enemy transport aflame off New Guinea and shooting up the transport's destroyer escort.

Allied heavy bombers pounced on the transport 100 miles off Gona Mission, the scene of the Japanese landing last week, and scored five direct hits, leaving the ship spouting flames visible for 30 miles.

The destroyer escort was then machine-gunned from low level and her anti-aircraft guns silenced, a communique said.

Allied headquarters said that for the first time in several days there was no ground activity at Kokoda, midway between Gona Mission and Port Moresby, indicating that the Japanese were hesitating in their thrust across the Papua Peninsula.

In China, Lieut.-Gen. Joseph W. Stilwell's headquarters reported that the Japanese lost four bombers and three new Zero-type fighters under the guns of U. S. Air Force fighters when the enemy twice attempted to raid Hengyang airdrome yesterday.

RAINFALL VERY BENEFICIAL TO FAYETTE CROPS

Moisture Urgently Needed To Insure Maturity Of Corn Crop

Friday's heavy rainfall, coming on the heels of a series of showers, and in some instances, heavy rains which had reached various parts of the community the past few days, was just what the corn crop has needed to insure maturity.

Some parts of the county had been visited by heavy rainfall during the week, but over this city the precipitation had been rather light, the snows around noon Wednesday being the heaviest here of the week.

Corn in parts of the county was beginning to show the effects of the dry weather, and some damage already had resulted to the early corn in the areas which had been short of rainfall.

In most of the county the rainfall this week has been sufficient to insure maturity of the corn, and additional rains later would add maturity to the full growth of the late corn as well as the early.

Soybeans, and other crops, including garden crops, were also greatly benefited by the heavy showers.

Friday's rainfall alone was worth tens of thousands of dollars to the farmers.

Many farmers state that never before have they seen so many stalks bearing two ears of corn as during the present season.

FAITH AND COOPERATION
In the conduct of the greatest war effort in history cooperation has reached what will probably become an eternal example of how men together can do what none may attempt alone.
Poland alone could not withstand the onslaught of Nazi armies nor the blasts of Nazi bombs. Denmark alone could not resist. Norway alone fell for want of aid. Belgium, Holland, Luxembourg, France; later, Yugoslavia, Greece, Crete, alone they fell. England was hard pressed. Russia's armies were swept back to the gates of Moscow. She was fighting alone.
Now there is new hope. For nations—like individual men—have banded together in a great cooperative movement to resist as a united group what they could no longer abide.
Individually the United Nations were each opposed in turn by the concentrated might of a highly organized force. Now they have organized against it. Each—in the true cooperative pattern—has given its interest into the common keeping where it may be more safely kept.
Nations themselves, like the nation's producers, now plan together, work together, fight together.
Nor may cooperation—either among nations or among individual producers—be laid aside once victory has capped their mighty efforts. For cooperation has become the greatest faith of those sincerely interested in fitting the world to the needs of all its people.

USE THEIR OWN HEADS
The War Department has made public the text of a letter sent by the Duke of Wellington in 1810 to the then British secretary of state for war:
"I must remind your Lordship—for the last time—that so long as I retain an independent position, I shall see that no officer under my command is debarr'd by attending to the futile driving of mere quill driving in your Lordship's office—from attending to his first duty—which is, and always has been, to so train the private men under his command that they may, without question, beat any force opposed to them in the field."
General Marshall suggested, in publicizing the letter, that our troop commanders in the field might feel as did the Iron Duke.
The inference, we hope and believe: America expects every field officer to use his head.
We have talked to many people, some fighting the war, and others given over to great melancholy. The most optimistic we find are the farmers and politicians. One because of good crops, the others be-

Washington at a Glance

There isn't any such post as the one Admiral William D. Leahy started in on a few days ago, by presidential appointment. The president is commander-in-chief of the United States Army and of the Navy also. There's no argument about that. And he has Army and Navy chiefs of staff, subject to his orders.
It seems, however, that the two services require co-ordination. The president has the authority to ordain 'em. He has so much to do, though, that he hasn't time to attend to details of the job. That's Admiral Leahy's function, as chief of staff to the commander-in-chief—the president. But, officially, there's no such position. Nevertheless, Admiral Leahy's appointment to it, it's done without congressional approval or any such thing.
There's no dispute that the admiral's a competent co-ordinator of our land and sea forces, but he can't compel it. He can recommend it to the president, who, presumably relying upon his good judgment, can require it absolutely.
He's an advisor, like Harry L. Hopkins.
It's a fair guess that, as a specialist, he'll be listened to very respectfully—that very few of his suggestions will be disregarded when he submits 'em at the White House. Indeed, the prediction's made that he'll developed that aviation is, not the whole thing, but predominant.

Other countries have established aviation departments.
We haven't. We've stood pat on the proposition that Army flyers are necessary for land flying and the Navy flyers are necessary at sea, but that they are adjuncts in either instance.
The aviators have the bug that they're the main thing in either instance.
They want an aviatorial wing—exclusively.
No Air Experience
Admiral Leahy isn't trained for it.
He knows how the Navy can utilize it and how the Army can, within its overgas limitations, but the aviators want to pull off a whole war from cloudland.
Admiral Leahy isn't equipped as qualified for it.
He dates back to the last war, when blimps and planes were of small consequence.
The admiral's 67 years old.
He's suspected of not having had practical experience.
I had some of my own in those days. It wasn't very thrilling.
Now you "hunt your hole," due to modern developments.
The question I hear asked is: "Isn't Admiral Leahy too old for today?"
And then, of course, arises that question:
"How much re- authority's he got?"
He hasn't, of course, got any, except advisatorially.

BROCKTON, Mass.—In war or peace, a husband's excuse has to be good.
Air raid wardens discovered one man still mowing his lawn after raid sirens had blown.
"Sure, I'll go in the house," the man said.
"But not unless you get a policeman to explain to my wife. She's been after me to mow this lawn for three weeks."
The wardens—also married—got the policeman.

The three are eight months old.

You will gain through relatives, strangers, literary activities, agents, interviews and travel. You should guard against imposition, however. While it is a political play, smearing everybody outside their own vision, has become too important a play by many politicians. Time was when they could get away with it, but time is here now for them to show some patriotism of their own, whether they wish to leave their swivel chairs or not. There are thousands that could be cut off the payrolls, but every cut might mean votes. With a start of thousands of votes from those on national payrolls, it will be pretty hard going for the opposition in the campaigns to come. Selfishness is still next to Godliness, in the political realm.

Diet and Health

Dietary Value of Liver as a Protective Food
By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.
WITH THE increase of our growing knowledge of the protective foods and the deficiency diseases, the value of the use of liver in the diet becomes more and more apparent.
The protective foods include the vitamins, some of the minerals and Dr. Clending will answer questions of general interest only, and then only through his column.
quite a few others. Their peculiar function is that they are not used exactly as fuel or as tissue builders, as most of our food is, but they perform a sort of regulatory function over the absorption of the other foodstuffs and over their utilization by the tissues.
Improves Blood Condition
There is no better illustration than the now generally familiar condition of liver in improving the condition of the blood and helping anemia. It does not do this because liver tissue actually enters into the formation of blood cells, but because it contains some chemical which stimulates the cells in the bone marrow where blood is formed, to regular activity.
As a comparative instance, a substance called nicotinic acid was found by researches conducted in 1937 to be a necessary part of the diet, although in very small quantities, in order to preserve perfect health. When it is not present, the skin becomes unhealthy and rough and scaly, and there is some disturbance of digestion and sometimes of the central nervous system.
Now it was further found, as in the case of liver, nicotinic acid does not actually enter into tissue building but, in the language of the scientists, "provides material for the building of co-enzymes used in tissue metabolism" or, in plain words, it provides substances that influence the cells to healthy activity. It is like a boss on a construction job: the boss does not lay any of the bricks but he keeps the gang that does lay the bricks pepped up.
In the regular progress of the study of any of the vitamins, the first step is to find that such and such bodily deficiencies result from the lack of the vitamin, and the second is to examine all the foods in the world to find out which ones contain the vitamin. And lo and behold, when the scientists went looking for nicotinic acid, liver

Romance Thumbs a Ride

CHAPTER FORTY-ONE
"OH, I've got an idea!" Claire said. "We'll take the wienies with us, and cook them out at my house! We can have them in the dining room in comfort, and—"
"Count me out," said Dian.
Claire was annoyed. "Still Miss Gloom, I see," she said.
"Maybe," said Dian, "but by the time we get back to town it'll be pretty late, and I'm tired."
"Another headache?"
"No. Nor have I seen a chance to sprain my ankle."
"Girls, girls!" said Bill, trying to sound humorous, but not feeling that way at all. "I suppose it's up to us, Paul, to reload the boat. Let's begin."
Paul said nothing. He got up and began busying himself.
When he and Bill had gone down to the boat, Dian turned to Claire. "Now that we're alone," she said, "I want you to know, Claire, that I think you are the cock-eyed limit."
"Why, for heaven's sake?" Claire asked, wide-eyed.
"And don't pull that wide-eyed look on me," Dian snapped. "Save it for the men—they seem to fall for it. I never would." And before Claire could speak, she rushed on. "It's females like you that make our sex look like 30 cents. Honest, Claire, why don't you stop acting, and display just one genuine emotion?"
"Well, of all the nerve!" Claire gasped. "Talking to me like that. Can I help it if men like me—and merely take you for granted? Can I help it if you can't hold your men, and—"
"Oh, shut up!" said Dian. "Some day a man with some brains in his head is going to see right through you, and when he does, it's going to be just too bad. I've been hoping and praying that Bill at least would be able to see through you. But he hasn't—evidently. He's as stupid as he's good looking—the masculine equivalent of 'beautiful but dumb.'"
Claire laughed. "Goodness me, you are all cut up, aren't you?" she said. "I'm sorry you feel you have to take it out on me simply because Bill and Paul prefer my type to yours."
"Come on, let's start gathering up this junk," said Dian.
"Very well," said Claire. "And if I ever ask you to help me again, it'll be because I'm completely out of my mind."
"That," said Dian, "suits me perfectly. After this, pick a girl who's dumber than I could ever possibly be. I can read you like a book. Claire—so that makes playing your game pretty difficult for me."
"Well, it doesn't really matter," Claire said, smiling to herself. "I shan't be in this neck of the woods much longer."
Dian looked at her.
"So I gathered," she said.
"What do you mean?"
"I just got through telling you that I could read you like a book."
"So what?"
"So I can easily understand that cat-that-ate-the-canary look on your beautiful pan."
"Really, Dian—!"
"You've made your decision," Dian said. "That's easy to see. And now you feel so pleased with yourself you can hardly bear it."
Claire dumped napkins and silver into the picnic hamper.
"Don't take any credit to yourself," she said. "You haven't had anything to do with the decision."
Dian said, "At least I supplied contrast. I was a spot on the scenery, anyway."
"Nonsense!"
"I suppose you'll always remember this little island," Dian added. "You can think of it, and say, 'There's a little island down in Virginia, and upon its gentle slopes I chose myself a husband.' And your children—if you ever forget yourself long enough to have any—will look up and say, 'Mother, darling, tell us all about it.' And you will—leaving out no details, not even the kiss on the sands after the two-some swim."
"Then you saw us?" said Claire. "I did—so did Paul."
"Then that explains everything—why you two were such wet blankets."
"Perhaps!"
"Goodness, Dian, I thought Weston were good losers."
"They are—although I've had nothing to lose."
"I wonder," said Claire cryptically.
Dian wiped out the salad bowl with a paper napkin. "By this time tomorrow," she said, "you will either be on the way to New York with Bill Rollins, or on the way to the West Indies with Paul Peters—so let's call it a day."
"And," said Claire, "don't you wish you knew which it was to be?"
"I think I DO know," said Dian. But before Claire could ask any questions, the two men rejoined them.
*****
It rained all night, and it still was raining on Sunday morning when Dian went down to join her aunt at breakfast. A slow, monotonous sort of rain, on a day that was gray and depressing; a day when it was easy to feel that the sun was gone for good, and would never shine again.
Miss Martha had put the breakfast things on a small table in the large, old-fashioned kitchen—a table that stood near a window overlooking the rear yard.
"It's sorter dampish," she said, "so I thought you wouldn't mind eating out here. Besides, it's such a nuisance carrying things back and forth to the dining room."
"It's nice," said Dian. "Cozy. Makes me think of when Grandfather and I used to have our breakfast in the kitchen out at the farm. He loved eating out there."
Miss Martha poured the coffee. "I didn't fix your eggs," she said. "I wasn't sure how you wanted them."
"I don't want them at all this morning, thank you," Dian said. She lifted her cup and took a long drink. "By the way, Aunt Martha, I wonder if you'd ask Miss Aggie to call for you this morning for church. I'd like the car."
"I don't mind at all," Miss Martha said. "Only what on earth do you want with the car on a day like this?"
"It's a good day to go on with cataloging Grandfather's books," Dian replied. "I'm going to drive out to the farm the moment I finish breakfast, and I don't want to be bothered, either. If anyone calls, please just say I'm not at home."
"You and that pesky farm!" Miss Martha exclaimed. "Honest to goodness, Dian, you're forever running off there. What are you running away from this time?"
"My thoughts, maybe," Dian smiled. "I'm not necessarily running away from anything," she added. "I feel like working, and there couldn't be a better day for it."
"Well, I reckon nothing I can say will make you chance your mind." "Nothing."

Fought for Germany Once - - Never Again

By TOM MADDOX
(Wide World News Service)
ON THE FARM PRODUCTION FRONT, July 31—Two Hungarian immigrants—one a former Hungarian soldier—are going to bat for Uncle Sam, via short wave radio to Europe.
Julius Ragalyi of Trumbull County, Ohio, and Joe Vargo of Mahoning County, Ohio in the next few weeks will broadcast for their first time and will tell their erstwhile European neighbors of tremendous strides being made by the American farmers to produce the food that will "win the war and write the peace."
Ragalyi and Vargo will recount their experiences as "free men in a free land" on transcriptions to be made at station WGAR, Cleveland, under direction of representatives of the Office of War Information. The transcriptions will be distributed from Washington to various short-wave stations throughout the nation for broadcast to middle Europe.
As a Hungarian soldier in the First World War, Ragalyi saw action against Italian armies near Monte Grapo, along the Swiss-French frontier. The shrapnel scars he carries are mementoes of that conflict.
"This time," says Ragalyi, "I'm fighting on the right side. When America wins this war the freedom and liberty I have enjoyed will belong also to my friends and relatives in Hungary, and by all the peoples in the old country."
Father of three children, he supports his aged mother and father from production on his 80 acres of rolling Trumbull County farmland. (His brother, who lives on an adjacent farm, is also an immigrant.) Julius Ragalyi is proud of the fact that he has increased his milk production from 13 cows—more than 40 gallons a day—in response to his adopted land's plea for greater dairy production.
His co-broadcaster will be Vargo, who was born in the village of Ks Besced, Baranya, in Hungary. At 61, Vargo says he's rarin' to fight the Axis. With great pride, Vargo states:
"My son, Joe, he's in the American army. And by golly, I do my part, too, by growing plenty of good food for him and all our soldier boys to eat."
Vargo's farm of 133 acres lies

What You Buy With WAR BONDS

Medical detachments in all branches of our military and naval forces require leg splints for emergency service. The so-called Thomas steel splints cost $2.25 per pair.

Base hospitals and many field hospitals require these splints as regular equipment. . . although in many cases two rifles are used as splints when no regular equipment is available for use on broken legs. Your purchase of War Bonds and Stamps will help buy these essential splints for our injured soldiers and flyers. ## Thursday's Fair Races All Won in Straight Effects

-Spying- On Sports

By Hugh Fullerton, Jr.

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.
NEW YORK, July 31—If Sammy Angott gets tagged by Ray Robinson tonight, he'll probably look around for the knockdown timekeeper before he falls... according to manager Charley Jones, the thing that kept Sammy from being counted out when he ran into Ray's right at Philadelphia a year ago was that he fell right in front of that official... The noise of the hammer pounding the canvas right at his ear brought Sammy back so successfully that he almost won the scrap... The crowds at Saratoga haven't been anything to write home about, but since the running horses arrived at the same as gas rationing and a spell of weather, attendance at the trotting track has dropped 50 per cent... They expect a comeback when the grand circuit moves in next week.

Tea for Two

When the Seattle Cricket Club found competition a bit light, the publicist Syd Hardt wrote the papers as follows: "Will you invite any teams wanting games to come out to Graves Field and play us?... Oh, yes, and tell them to bring their own sugar for the tea."

John Cronley, Oklahoma City Oklahoma: "Such nonsense originating in Chicago's Tam O'Shanter, pro golfers striking in a war benefit tournament in refusal to aid fans by wearing numbers. Oh, well, the numbers of Tommy Armour and Joe Kirkwood have been up a long time as far as competition golf goes."

Day's Fastest Mile In 2:15 Pace Turned In By Queen Wilkes

Susan Dale Sets Sizzling Pace and Makes Stout-Hearted Finish Only To Lose by Half a Length—Joe C Abbe Wins Pacing Stake and Earl's Playboy Takes 2:24 Trot

Racing at the second day of the Fair Thursday afternoon turned the spotlight on three outstanding horses—one in each race on the program—but it was up to Queen Wilkes, a roan mare by The King Direct to turn in the fastest and most spectacular heat of the day as she cinched a three heat win of the 2:15 pace by going the last mile in 2:08 1/4.

Only minor accidents marred the sport. Al Clark, driving Miss Belle Martin, was pitched from his bike in the home stretch in the second heat of the 2:15 pace but after lying along the inside rail stunned for a few minutes he walked back without assistance. Two drivers, Ernie Smith and James France, miraculously escaped serious injury in a three-horse tangle the previous day. Smith was back driving Thursday but substitutes were put up for France.

All three of the races were won in straight heats Thursday but in spite of the dominance of each by the winners, the finishes were close.

Joe C. Abbe, a bay gelding by Bert Abbe, driven by Lighthill, came from far behind with a rush through the stretch to win the first heat of the $622.50 stake for three-year-old pacers. In the next two heats he was taken to the front earlier to set his own pace and clipped fractions of a second off of the time of the first mile in each. Frisky Direct, which finished second in the first heat was drawn and from then on it was Missy Martin, fourth in the first heat that furnished the chief competition. Hustler, owned by Kirk and Valley of Washington C. H. and driven by Smith, also of Washington C. H., disappointed his home town supporters in the first two heats by jumping off his chances, but he came through with a sizzling mile in the last heat to finish third.

Finishing with a burst of speed through the stretch, Earl's Playboy, a bay horse by Protector and driven by Russell, took the first heat of the 2:24 trot so impressively that interest centered largely on the second and third positions in the other two heats which he won, though not without some stiff competition from Hecantrot, which finished second in each after trailing Earl's Playboy and Bohemian King in the opener.

Real Bell, owned by John Groff of Bloomingburg and driven by Frank Lanum, Washington C. H. reinsman, set the pace in the 2:24 trot for the first seven furlongs before he broke half-way down the home stretch, only an eighth of a mile from the wire, and had to be taken up. He finished sixth, and fifth.

Much of the credit for the fastest mile of meeting to date goes to Susan Dale. Away slowly in the last heat—a good eight lengths back of the leader—she was asked for and delivered a burst of speed that took her to the front of the five-horse field within the first quarter. There she was steadied on the rail until they headed into the final turn when Queen Wilkes was pulled out for the drive. Around the turn they came, head to head, and on into the stretch in the most sensational duel of the day. She was game but did not have enough left, after that first quarter sprint, to withstand the strong finish of Queen Wilkes who surged on to win the third and final heat of the 2:15 pace by half a length driving in 2:08 1/4. Under the blistering pace set by Susan Dale from the start, this heat was paced five seconds faster than the first and a second faster than the second. She had finished third and fourth in the previous miles. There were eight starters in the 2:15 pace but three were drawn, leaving only five for the final test. Miss Belle Martin, which looked like the strongest threat to Queen Wilkes when she finished second in the opener was unable to come back after the spill in the stretch in the second heat.

A downpour of rain about noon left the track so muddy that the start of the races was postponed until 4:30 P. M. to insure better racing and greater safety for horses and drivers. Due to good drainage and the condition of the racing strip, it dried off in much less time than many had expected but the speed committee and judges ruled against taking any chances with such valuable horses and declined to rush the first race. Just two wet spots, one on the back stretch and one on the first turn, were the chief cause of concern to officials. Only one horse was drawn because of the condition of the track, and that was soon after the rain started. The owner told the officials later that he took the precautionary action because he did not believe it was possible for the track to dry off so soon.

The delayed start, several of the officials said, had brought favorable comments from many of the followers of the sport who suggested that it gave more an opportunity to see the complete card, especially those who could not get away for the full afternoon. The last race was finished by 7 P. M.

DODGER RECORD FOR YEAR BEST IN 33 YEARS

Unless They Slip, Brooks Will Be First Over .700 Average Since 1907

(By The Associated Press)
Fans probably don't pay a great deal of attention to the baseball standings these days because the New York Yankees and Brooklyn Dodgers are making runaways of the Major League pennant races. The Brooklyn Dodgers have won 70 games and lost only 29 for a percentage of .707 and stand a good chance of becoming the first team in 33 years in the National League to finish above the .700 percentage level.

The record was set by the Chicago Cubs in 1906 when they won 116 games and lost 36 for .763. They also were above .700 the next year and the Pittsburgh Pirates topped that level in 1902 and 1909. In the American League the great Yankee clubs of 1927 and 1939 and the Philadelphia Athletics of 1931 are all that have ever turned the trick.

The Dodgers added another scalp last night with a 9-2 conquest of the Chicago Cubs.

This increased Brooklyn's lead to 8 1/2 games over the idle St. Louis Cardinals. The Yankees also were idle, but their American League margin was increased to 12 1/2 games as the Boston Red Sox dropped a 4-3 decision to the Cleveland Indians.

The Washington Senators captured their third straight from the St. Louis Browns 11-6. Pinky Higgins drove in six runs as Detroit downed the Philadelphia Athletics 11-5 in the first game of a doubleheader, but the A's slugged their way to a 7-6 triumph in the nightcap.

The Cincinnati Reds were held to four hits by Earl Naylor and Ike Pearson and lost a 4-2 verdict to the Philadelphia Phils in a night game. Bucky Walters gave six hits in losing.

Ray Lamanno Is Injured as Reds Beaten

BOSTON, July 31—(P)—Without their winning string or their leading hitter, rookie catcher Ray Lamanno, the Cincinnati Reds came here today to open a four-game series with the Boston Braves.

The Reds lost a dull game at Philadelphia last night 4-2, and Lamanno injured his right thumb on a foul tip in the second frame. Ray was sent to Cincinnati for further examination and treatment of the thumb.

The Phils' ended the Redlegs' five-game winning streak and kept Bucky Walters from his 13th victory by scoring two runs in the second and two more in the sixth. A walk, single, Ron Northey's double and Max Marshall's error brought the first two markers, and the others came on a single, bad throw by Walters and triple by Bobby Bragan.

A homer by Eric Tipton in the second was the only hit the Reds clouted off Earl Naylor, converted rookie outfielder, but Naylor's control soured in the fourth and he was yanked after two walks and two wild pitches allowed a run. Ike Pearson held the Reds scoreless on three hits from there.

Bragan, catching his first full game since yielding the shortstop berth to Danny Murtaugh, picked off Lonnie Frey who tried to steal in the initial frame. Elmer Riddle or Junior Thompson was slated to work today for the Reds against Manuel Salvo or Tom Early of the Braves.

Extra Inning Game Is Won By Red Birds

(By The Associated Press)

A couple of pitchers named Harry found themselves in the spotlight last night in a curtailed American Association program reduced to two games because of schedule alterations and the weather.

At Minneapolis, Harry Kelley pitched three hit ball to give the Millers a 6 to 2 victory over the Toledo Mudhens.

At St. Paul Harry Brecheen, the Columbus Southpaw, entered the game as a relief pitcher in the 10th inning and proceeded to hit and pitch the Red Birds to a 4 to 2 victory over the Saints.

Weather at Milwaukee prevented a double header between the Brewers and Indianapolis.

ing with his back to the wall. While Democratic Rep. Robert Crosser of the 21st (Cleveland) district also is defending his isolationist record against organization-endorsed John Gillespie, the fight against Crosser is less heated.

Next to the Sweeney-Feighan contest in intensity is the battle between Republican Rep. Charles H. Elston of the 1st (Cincinnati) district and former Rep. Victor Heintz, who resigned from congress to fight in the first World War. Democratic congressional candidates as well as Heintz are lambasting Elston for his pre-Pearl Harbor isolationist stand.

The fourth contest in which isolationism is the chief issue is that between Republican Rep. John M. Vorys of the 12th Columbus district and Melville D. Frank, a former city councilman. Republican Rep. Cliff Clevenger of the 5th district and J. Harry McGregor of the 17th also are deeding their congressional votes against fortification of Guam in the Pacific and other isolationist stands.

Clevenger's chief opponent in a four-cornered race is William L. Manahan of Defiance, while McGregor is opposed by Oliver H. Dockery Jr., of Newark, a retired army Colonel.

Meanwhile, the State Liquor Board, cracking down on a night club criticized by the army, made initial use of its power to cancel beer and liquor permits in the absence of specific charges.

The board suspended for the unexpired term the beer and liquor licenses of the Brysonian, a club near the air base, "in the interest of the preservation of the health and welfare of the men in training for the armed forces of the country."

The suspension was requested by Colonel Baldinger on a "moral basis." He recently obtained revocation of dance hall permits of the Brysonian and five other places in the area.

She went about the campus hatless—a bit ahead of fashion—and wearing a sweater and skirt. She liked low-back evening gowns and wore them well.

CHICAGO, July 31.—(P)—Wheat prices fell a cent or more a bushel again today to new lows for the season as the market remained unsettled because of the military situation in Russia.

Very favorable crop reports from the domestic spring wheat belt and Canada, where high yields were forecast, continued lagging flour demand and hedging against the new crop movement also were bearish factors.

DAY'S ACTIVITIES IN WALL STREET

NEW YORK, July 31.—(P)—Bethlehem and U. S. Steel came to life as recovery leaders in today's stock market and inspired buying support for most other sections of the list.

Bullish fuel was discerned in Bethlehem's regular dividend declaration and the somewhat better than expected earnings figures in the face of heavy tax provisions. Few speculative or investment incentives were seen in the war news.

What You Buy With WAR BONDS

From primary trainer planes, air-men of the Army and Navy are graduated to advanced trainer planes, larger and in some cases, multiple motored. Advanced trainer planes for the Navy cost about $46,000.

Training in these larger planes is the last step before the pilot is skillful enough to handle the giant bombers and multi-motored torpedo planes. Our aviators must have the advantage of the best training equipment, for air superiority over our enemies is essential if we are to win this war. Your purchase of War Bonds and Stamps will give them this advantage. Invest at least ten percent of your income in War Bonds every payday.

Poodles Hanneford's Act Is Feature Fair of Review

Poodles Hanneford greatest riding comedian of all time.

With a three-night presentation of a spectacular patriotic pageant completed, night crowds at the Fair Friday and Saturday could turn to a less serious form of entertainment in the form of a Stage Review.

The Stage Review was described by members of the Fair Board as more in the nature of a vaudeville and declared that one of the "greatest of the veteran entertainers of the day" was the headline attraction. That reference was to Poodles Hanneford.

The Hanneford acts are considered a show in themselves but the committee also booked The Henrys as an added attraction.

MUSIC FEDERATION AIDS RECORD DRIVE

Members of the Cecilian Music Club are being urged to assist the American Legion in its drive to collect phonograph records for the war effort.

The drive is now under way and closes August 2nd, and after the Legion drive, the work of the National Federation of Music Clubs will continue the effort, and in Ohio records will be sent to Mrs. W. G. Wandel, of Toledo.

In this city Mrs. W. M. Durkee, defense chairman of the Cecilian Music Club, is in charge of the collection of records, which was started last year.

OVER 1,700 RIBBONS GIVEN BY FAIR BOARD

The greatest number of ribbons ever given at a Fayette County Fair is being distributed this year to the list of exhibitors.

Usually around 1,400 ribbons are given for various awards in all departments, but this year, according to Secretary George Gossard, over 1,700 ribbons are being distributed.

One of these "ribbons" is about 22 inches by 10 inches, for the grand champion in the Hereford cattle show.

In Death Valley, Calif., the temperature has gone above 134 degrees.

ORIENT INSTITUTION HAS FAIR DISPLAY

The Institution for Feeble Minded Youth, at Orient, has an interesting display of handicrafts of the inmates, at the Fair.

The display is housed in the Merchants Building, which is one of the chief centers of attraction.

A very definite idea of the craftsmanship of the inmates may be gleaned by a study of the wide range of hand-made articles exhibited.

ELEVEN MORE FAYETTE REGISTRANTS DEPART

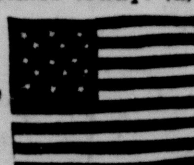

Eleven additional registrants, all colored, were sent to Fort Hayes induction center, from Fayette County, Friday morning, leaving here by bus.

Reginald (Chink) Davis was placed in charge of the group.

As usual quite a number of relatives and friends were present for the departure.
